

Maximilian Bolté
Doctor of Chiropractic
Life University, Georgia USA

Maximilian Bolté was born in the French speaking island of Haiti from where the entire family emigrated in the early 1960's.

He spent his youth and formative years growing up in New York City. After graduating from Brooklyn Technical High School, he went on to study at the University of California from where he received his Bachelor of Arts degree.

He then went on to study and work in the musical, dance and theatrical arts during the next decade. In the following years, he became interested in Eastern philosophy and healing arts which led him to the study of Oriental Martial Arts such as Tai Chi and Aikido. Eventually, this led him to the study of Japanese Shiatsu , Reiki and Acupuncture.

After 6 intensive years of chiropractic studies at Life University in Atlanta , he received his Diploma as Doctor of Chiropractic, in June 1989.

Dr. Bolte spent his first 2 years as apprentice to Dr.

Frank Gilbert ,a successful principled chiropractor in New York City.

He then opened his own “Studio di Chiropractica “in Manhattan . He practiced there during the next 7 years before moving to Italy.

He spent his first years in Italy as an associate doctor in Milano, Siena and Brescia where he met the love of his life.

He was then offered a position in south of Spain to run a chiropractic clinic in Andalusia.

He went on to buy a failing chiropractic practice and turned it into a successful one in a short time.

In 2009, due to the economic crisis he moved to Barcelona where he opened a second practice which he still runs with the help of an associate.

Doctor Bolté is a specialist in the treatment of the upper cervical spine since 2009. He continues to adjourn his skills

and knowledge of the spine and nervous system by attending yearly seminars.
